

I need a pcb which can sense the presence of multiple people in a room, sense if they are in a pre-configured zone, and tell how far away each person is from the sensor. Each zone is a segment of the room, predefined by the user. Interfacing with the rest of the world, I would like to use the thread protocol.